STOCK OFFERED WITH ABANDON

REV. N. PLAAS ASSURANCE
10 PER CENT INTEREST LEADS TO SALE.

BOSTON, June 3.—A guarantee by Rev. Norman Plaas of ten per cent interest led Miss F. Annetto Sanier of Brooklyn, New York, to induce her mother to sell real estate holdings in Iowa City, Ia., and invest $6000 in the stock of the Redeemable Investment company and influenced her to invest $3000 on her own account in subsidiary companies, according to her testimony yesterday in the trial of the officers of the company on charges of fraudulent use of the mails.

Miss Sanier said she first knew Rev. Plaas, former president of the Redeemable, when he was president of Washburn college, Topeka, Kan., where she was a professor.

Florence I. Tucker of Rahway, N. J., testified to buying $550 worth of Redeemable stock solely in consequence of a talk with Geo. B. Graft, secretary of the company, whom she met at a Christian Endeavor convention in Europe.

"SCOTTY" TELLS OF PROPOSED TRIP

"Death Valley Scotty" left for National in Haefner's auto yesterday morning, for the purpose of looking over the camp before leaving the country. Scotty still maintains that he is going to Peru, where there is practically a virgin mining field.

"Upon my return from National," said Scotty in conversation with the reporter, "I shall leave for Chicago, and from there will go down to the Yaco valley, Mississippi, and to New Orleans, and from the latter place to New York."

"Chicago is a pretty chilly town," ventured the reporter, "especially when the wind is blowing in from the lake."

"Don't need to tell me," was the rejoinder, "but those 'Chi' people are not a marker to the average Bostonian. Those old Yankees are so frozen that they perspire ice-water on the Fourth of July, with the thermometer at 97 in the shade. Why, should you attempt to stop some old fellow on the street for the purpose of inquiring the direction to the state house, no two to one he wouldn't have you pinched on suspicion of being a confidence man."

"Still," continued Scotty, reflectively, "you can't blame them much. Taken on the whole, the people of Boston have made money in Nevada mines, but many of moderate means have lost. This is the class of people who always take a long chance with their money, and, of course, fifty will lose out where one wins."

"But what about the Peruvian trip, Scotty?"

"I am going, sure. From New York I shall go to Galveston, Tex., and from there straight to Dami-dan, Peru. It is a big placer proposition, and the country is rapidly filling up. I understand the men who robbed the First National bank of Winnemucca some years ago are there, digging out the yellow stuff."

"Rather dangerous place to go, ain't it, Scotty?"

"Now, they got none the best of me. They've got their long suit and I've got mine. It's not likely I may be able to interest them in some big undertaking I will promote when I get there, and I don't believe they've got anything stronger than that."—Silver State.

OLD ARTILLERY IS NOW IN POSITION

The old iron cannons, which formerly belonged to Battery A, of Virginia City, and which have been stored in the state armory for a number of years, have been placed in position on the Capitol lawn. They were wheeled into position yesterday and since that time have been the admired object of every kid in the camp. The old smooth bores are in good repair, as are the carriages. They are being given a final polishing by workmen and will from this time on decorate the plaza.

Concrete blocks were fashioned in order to keep the wheels off the ground and thus preserve the ancient pieces for the next generation. They are a good deal like an iron dog; they look a heap more formidable than they really are. If they ever shot a cannon ball it was years ago and are a fit subject for the lads to practice on. When the Boy Scouts are properly organized they can come down some day and capture the place by storm.

They are facing the wrong way to protect the treasury and some one has suggested that it would take more than ancient arms to handle the senate and assembly in time of action. Some use has been found for the field pieces.—Carson Appeal.

COURT UNDOES WORK OF CUPID JUSTICE

RIVERSIDE, June 3.—Antanecio Ledesma and Jessie Wells, aged 15 years, are no longer man and wife, and the work of the justice of the peace of San Bernardino, who married them, is undone. The suit of the girl's father, John Wells, to have the marriage annulled was heard in the superior court here and the court out-generated Dan Cupid.

Ledesma and the fair seniorita, who her father claims is but 15 years of age, were the participants in a spectacular marriage on May 2. They hurried to San Bernardino in a big automobile, where they secured their license. The next morning they were brought back to Riverside in the same automobile, in the custody of the sheriff.
